Obituary.

Jeremiah Adam Copeland was born in Fayette county, Iowa, Nov. 13, 1879, and died at Montrose, Colo., June 23, '10, of typhoid fever, at the age of 30 years, 7 months and 10 days.

When 13 years of age he moved to Decatur county, Iowa, where he grew to manhood, and in 1903 he moved to Cherry county, Neb., with his parents. In 1904 he went to Custer, S. D., and the next year was married to Miss Minnie Dickson and from there they went to Colorado to make their future home. On April 30, 1908, his wife and infant son were called to the other world.

He leaves a father, mother, five brothers and 6 sisters, besides other relatives and friends to mourn his death.

A large number of friends followed the remains to its last resting place where he was lryed beside his way and son to await the resurrection. Only one brother, Fred, was present at the funeral.

Call not back the dear departed. Anchored safe where storms are o'er; We left him on the border land, To meet and part no more.

Far beyond this world of change, Far beyond this world of care; We shall meet our loving loved one In our Father's mansion fair.

In 1903 both New Hampshire and Vermont abandoned prohibition as a failure and adopted license systems. In 1901 New Hampshire had 1,581 government stamps, which number had been reduced to 972 under the license system in 1906.

(By a Special Correspondent.)

So Congress passed the corporation tax, but jockeyed the people by purposely failing to provide funds for the handling of data which would come in under the publicity clause. Even this was enough. Congress, in the session just closed, completed the swindle on the public by striking out the publicity feature all together! And Mr. Taft himself had declared the publicity clause was the most valuable feature in the bill! How long are the People going to stand for such treachery as this?

Senator Clapp of Minnesota, Republican insurgent, was recently giving me an interview on the justness of a tax on incomes. Finally he stopped abruptly and pointed out of his window. "Tavener," he said, "notice that marble wall yonder. Which stone bears the greatest weight? The stone at the bottom or the one at the top? Before you answer I will add that is just the way it is without an income tax. Until the present tariff schedules are revised along lines of justice, and until we have an income tax to take some of the burden of taxation from the man at the bottom, that that stone wall will stand as a deadly parallel to existing conditions."

Two big state conventions were held recently. Pennsylvania Republicans declared as follows on the tariff: "We believe that the tariff bill recently enacted is in accord with the Republican policy expressed in its last national platform. We agree with President Taft that it is the best tariff the Republican party ever passed."

Said the Ohio Democrats: We demand a revision of the present unjust and oppressive tariff, reducing the rates so as to lower the prices imposed on the consumer."

Consumers, it is up to you. Think the matter over!

"In my opinion the next house will be democratic by a majority of between forty and fifty," said Chairman James T. Lloyd, of the National Democratic Congressional committee, Mr. Lloyd is in close touch with political conditions in practically every congressional district in the country, and is generally reputed among his colleagues as more likely to be over cautious than over-confident if any thing, when making political prognostications. Minority Leader Champ Clark predicts the Democratic majority in the next house may possibly reach seventy-five.
